Low Vision Tools Enhance Reading Inside the Library

The Library has several devices to assist patrons with low vision who want to read books, magazines or newspapers during their visit with us.

The Merlin is a flat-bed reader that enables you to place the publication so that an entire page can be viewed at once.

Donated by Elyse Riesa

The free-standing magnifier enables you to sit in a chair in the atrium and hold your material under it.

Donated by Friends of the Library

Several lighted hand-held magnifying glasses are also available.

Keep Library Card Updated If Using E-Resources

If you use one of our e-book services — Overdrive/Libby or CloudLibrary, you must keep your library card up to date. Cards are set to be reviewed every 2 years. In the event you are denied access or before going on a long trip, give us a call so we can make sure your card is active.

Caring for Library Books

Library books are shared resources.
You can help them last longer.

When reading at the beach, please try to keep sand from inside the book cover.

If you like to snack while reading, please be considerate of others who will read the same title after you by taking care to avoid spilling food or drink on the books.

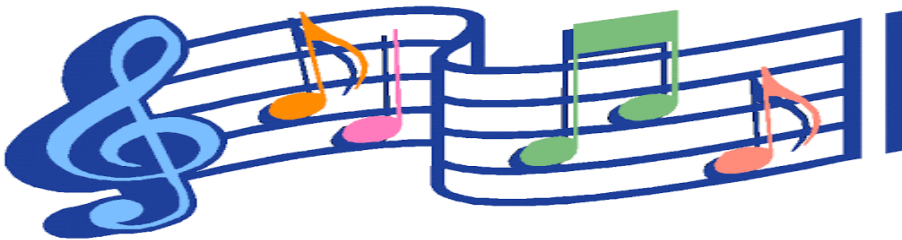

Also, please do not fold over the page corners —
ask us for a free bookmark.

Bringing the Arts to You via YouTube

Although the Library has not held live events, we have been creating videos for you to enjoy. There are concerts, artist interviews and a new children's story program. If you do not have a computer, tablet, or phone to view them, you can plug in your own ear-phones to a Library computer. The list of currently available concerts is below. The link is found on the Library's website highlandbeach.us/departments/library or search "Highland Beach Library" directly from YouTube.com and click on "view full playlist"

- ◇ Jazz saxophone — Merv Johnston
- ◇ Pops & Standards vocal & piano — Tony Abbott
- ◇ Classical viola — David Pedraza
- ◇ Classical piano — Duo Beaux Arts
- ◇ Romance from the Songbook - Carlos Manuel Santana - vocals
& Rosemary Stone - piano new
